Disrupted Return

Mr Gillan

An apology at the outset of our first newsletter following the half term break is not what I envisaged, but I feel it necessary to apologise for any inconvenience caused to families regarding our closure, yesterday (Thursday 2nd). It was an incredibly fast-moving scenario – as quick as the water that caused it – and I am evaluating our response in terms of anything we could have done better in future instances. I deeply appreciate the support of families in the village and surrounding area who have contacted me to explain the conditions warranted our actions, but no Head wants children missing a day of school, ultimately. My own problems of travelling via 3 counties to get to school didn't help the matter, and so it was a perfect storm of events – no pun intended. If anyone feels that we could have done better with communication and systems, I am always willing to listen and learn for next time: steve.gillan@thurlbearprimaryschool.co.uk

Thanks to the families that completed learning online and posted some great items on Dojo.

Notices

Mr Gillan Mrs Carter

Our Poppies have arrived and can be purchased during the school day; our Values Team will bring them to classes and teachers will give pupils time to purchase one. I know we have also sold them in the playground at pick-up time and we will be able to do this again for any parents/carers wishing to purchase.

This half term will be a busy one in any Church primary school and we also have some great events in the churches around us.

Messy Church is a time to come together: 11th November!

The Seven Sowers Benefice Messy Church

School clubs appeal: I will be speaking to our Values Team on Monday regarding our clubs offer. I would think that Netball/Basketball on a Tuesday could have a few more joiners, if your child is interested (Years 3 to 6) and it is a good, active session. Choir was excellent, today, but could do with some more lovely voices from the older age groups!

Safeguarding Mr Gillan

Keeping children safe encompasses many facets, including food safety. At Thurlbear, we have children with severe allergies connected to a range of foods – mentioned regularly in our communications – so please think carefully about what is brought in for lunches and healthy snacks. NUTELLA is also on the list of foods to avoid, due to its nut ingredients.
